Summary: I found this website on google, inside it there's an research article, the research was conducted by: Arunditi Xantus, Samantha B. Saltz and Jon A. Shaw of University of Miami School of Medicine, Miami, USA from Jan 21,2015 to April 29,2015.

The research article on this website is based on the participants aged from 10 years to 17. There were total of 51 participant of which 24 reported some form of cyber-bullying.

The research found out the most common form of cyber-bullying in teenager is through facebook .However, the researchers also add that technology-based bullying either through internet-based application or cellular phones is growing rapidly and has received growing amount of attentions over the year.

The article also says that internet-based application and cellular phone exposes teenagers to different unwanted and violent topics and sites and unwanted sexual exposers including images and video which is likely to effect the mentality of a teenager.

There are different topics in the article beside cyber-bullying they are:

- Depression
  - Anxiety
- Adolescent psychiatry

This topics are based on the same participant the research was conducted to analyse the mental state of the victims to know their opinion on cyber-bullying.
